

WEEKLY PROGRESS REPORT

Progress:

This week, in the concept of first iteration, I was responsible for saving agent properties and loading agent properties as the first part of implementing Save/Load Module. At the end of the first term, in the final demo, we have done most of the job about this; however, we were recording the information into a single text file and read from it. This week I managed to do this job by recording the information which we get from the user as a XML file.

Besides that, Emre and I was responsible for creating a project web-page. We created the web page and uploaded the reports that we have submitted in the first term. We uploaded the executable jar file in the home page of the web site thinking that at the end of each iteration it would be nice to access to the current version of the project easily.
